Define an Organization

Home > WebEOC > Alerts > Define an Organization

Organizations allow you to group your external contacts and WebEOC users, and manage their Ad-Hoc Notification alert permissions, based on organizational structure.

A default organization, called Default WebEOC Organization is provided that grants all contacts basic organizational permissions that parallel their WebEOC access permissions. New WebEOC users are automatically assigned to this group, unless you rename it or delete it. See Manage WebEOC Organizations.

For many organizations, the default WebEOC organization is sufficient.

If you have a more complex organizational structure, or you want to differentiate between suborganizations or departments, you can choose to create your own organization and delete the default, or rename the organization after all contacts have been assigned.

Important: Once you delete the default organization, you cannot recreate it. If you have not created another organization, only WebEOC Administrators will be able to interact with Ad Hoc Alerts and the Con tacts plugins.
